

We are pleased to announce that Rhopoint Metrology Limited has acquired the business and assets of Brunel Metrology Services Limited.

This transaction makes Rhopoint Metrology one of the largest calibration companies in the UK. It will enable Rhopoint Metrology to better service customers both as to the scope of work undertaken and as to another geographical location.

Derek Light, MD of Brunel stated:

“I have spent many years building Brunel into a successful calibration house. It is now time to hand over the reins to a younger team that will grow the business further. I have been very impressed with Rhopoint Metrology and pleased to conclude this transaction with them. I will remain as part of the team for the next 12 months in order to ensure an orderly transition.”

John Briggs, CEO of Rhopoint Group stated:

“We have been looking to grow our calibration division for some time. We are impressed with the systems and customer service ethos that Derek has created over the years with Brunel. We believe that with the scope of UKAS accreditations that Rhopoint Metrology has, we can offer Brunel’s customers an enhanced service. Rhopoint Metrology’s customers will benefit from a greater depth of resource and another substantive geographical location. We are grateful to Derek for this opportunity.”
